Requirements and Planning Sheet for Majors, Honors Majors and Honors Minors

Majors

- Ten credits in two or more literatures in the original languages, including a substantial concentration of work (normally four or five courses) in each of the literatures.
- The thesis does not count toward these 10 credits.

Honors Major

- Four 2-credit preparations in at least two literatures in the original language, one of which is a thesis.
- One of the preparations may be used as an independent minor (in Russian or German studies, for instance) if the minor's departmental requirements have been met.
- Minors requiring unrelated preparations such as biology or psychology are not allowed.
- All four honors preparations are necessary components of the comparative literature honors major.

Honors Minor

- A 2-credit thesis of 50 to 60 pages, integrating preparations that have been done in two literatures in the original language.

 This plan must be signed by both advisors in the two different languages.
