

THE HOBBY LOBBY CASE AND CONCERNS ABOUT SAME-SEX MARRIAGE

*How Should the Constitution and
Open-Ended Statutes be Interpreted, and What Exemptions Based on Religious Convictions and Conscience are Just and Wise?*

2015 Constitution Day Lecture

Kent Greenawalt '58

University Professor, Columbia Law School, and Member of the American Philosophical Society, Kent Greenawalt has published widely on both the speech and religion clauses of the First Amendment and on conflicts between law and morality.

Monday, Sept. 28, 4:15 p.m.
Scheuer Room, Swarthmore College

Sponsored by the President's Office and the Department of Political Science