Visiting Assistant Professor of Computer Science

The Computer Science Department invites applications for a Visiting Professor position to begin Spring semester of 2017. The term of the position is for one or three semesters, depending on candidate preference.

Swarthmore College has a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity and inclusivity in its educational program and employment practices. The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrated commitments to a more inclusive society and world.

Swarthmore College is a small, selective, liberal arts college located 10 miles outside of Philadelphia. The Computer Science Department offers majors and minors at the undergraduate level.

Applicants must have teaching experience and should be comfortable teaching a wide range of courses at the introductory and intermediate level. Candidates should additionally have a strong commitment to involving undergraduates in their research. A Ph.D. in Computer Science at or near the time of appointment is required.

Applications should include a cover letter, vita, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference, at least one (preferably two) of which should speak to the candidate's teaching ability. In your cover letter, please briefly describe your current research agenda; what would be attractive to you about teaching in a liberal arts college environment; and what background, experience, or interests are likely to make you a strong teacher of Swarthmore College students.

Priority will be given to complete applications received by October 15, 2017. Applications will continue to be accepted after this date until the position is filled.
