Lecturer in Arabic

The Department of Modern Languages and Literatures at Swarthmore College seeks applicants for a lecturer in Arabic to teach first and second year Arabic, beginning in the fall semester of 2016. This is an initial one-year appointment, with potential for renewal to terms of up to three years based on need and performance. Responsibilities include teaching six to eight units per year and contributing to the growth of the Arabic program at Swarthmore. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in activities organized by the Arabic Program and the Department. The successful candidate must hold an M.A. in Arabic Language and Literature, or a related field. A record of excellence in teaching Arabic as a foreign language is required. The candidate must demonstrate native or near-native fluency in Modern Standard Arabic and English. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Please send curriculum vitae, cover letter, teaching philosophy, sample student evaluations, and three letters of recommendation to: http://academicjobsonline.org/6964. (Recommenders are also encouraged to use the on-line application website). If unable to submit on-line, send to: Arabic Search, Department of Modern Languages and Literatures, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, PA 19081-1397. Review of applications will begin March 1st. Chosen candidates may be interviewed by phone or Skype. Swarthmore College is a highly selective liberal arts college, located in the suburbs of Philadelphia, whose mission combines academic rigor with social responsibility. Swarthmore has a strong institutional commitment to inclusive excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment practices. The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrable commitments to a more inclusive society and world.
