Assistant Professor of Sociology

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology is conducting a tenure track search for an Assistant Professor of Sociology to begin Fall 2016. We seek a colleague who is well-versed in quantitative methods, has an exciting research agenda, and is dedicated to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts context. Areas of expertise might include public health, migration and mobilities, and/or urbanization. Social geographers who consider themselves demographers will also be considered. PhD in hand and some teaching experience preferred. Faculty members are expected to teach 4 or 5 courses a year, including the advising of several year-long thesis projects. The person who occupies this position should expect to teach at least one or two methodology courses each year. Application deadline is September 15, 2015. Candidates should send cover letter (which includes teaching philosophy, experience, and research agenda) and curriculum vitae.

Please apply at: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5676. We will contact you if we would like letters of recommendation. DO NOT HAVE LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION SENT UNLESS REQUESTED TO DO SO. If unable to submit online, send materials to: Sarah Willie-LeBreton, Chair, Department of Sociology & Anthropology, Swarthmore College, 500 College Avenue, Swarthmore, PA 19081-1397 (swillie1@swarthmore.edu).

Swarthmore College is committed to excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment practices. We actively seek and welcome applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with a demonstrable commitment to a more inclusive society and world. Racial minorities are strongly encouraged to apply.
