The Department of Psychology announces a three-year, non-tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin September 2015. The individual will be responsible for teaching introductory and advanced undergraduate courses in psychology and neuroscience (including behavioral neuroscience and cognitive or social neuroscience) and research methods. We seek an individual with a commitment to teaching as well as an active research program that can engage bright undergraduates. Among other resources, the department has a high density EEG lab (EGI) with technical support. Swarthmore is a small, highly selective liberal arts college, located in the suburbs of Philadelphia. Applicants should submit a letter describing their teaching and research interests, a current CV, reprints or preprints of recent work, and three letters of recommendation. Swarthmore College has a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment. The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with diverse backgrounds including those who have intercultural experience and those with demonstrable commitments to an inclusive society and world. Consideration of candidates will begin immediately. Inquiries may be addressed to the Search Committee, Department of Psychology, Swarthmore College, Email psych@swarthmore.edu. Applications may be submitted online at: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5478.