SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGIST

The Department of Psychology announces a 3-year, non-tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin September 2016. The individual will be responsible for teaching introductory social psychology and research methods, as well as advanced undergraduate courses in an area of specialization (e.g., Thinking Judgment and Decision Making; Cultural Psychology; The Psychology of Race, etc.). We seek an individual with a commitment to teaching as well as an active research program that can engage diverse and talented undergraduates. Swarthmore is a small, highly selective liberal arts college, located in the suburbs of Philadelphia. Swarthmore has a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment. The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with diverse backgrounds including those who have intercultural experience and those with demonstrable commitments to an inclusive society and world. Applicants from traditionally underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Applicants should submit a letter describing their teaching philosophy and research interests, a current CV, reprints or preprints of recent work, and three letters of recommendation. Consideration of candidates will begin immediately. Inquiries may be addressed to the Search Committee, Department of Psychology, Swarthmore College, Email psych@swarthmore.edu

Applications may be submitted online at: Academic Jobs Online – Social Psychologist