

[Letter Brame [?] to Elihu Burritt, August 31, 1871]

The American Joint National Agency Birmingham [UK]

Union Passage

Aug[ust] 31st 1871

Dear Mr. Burritt

My efforts have not been quite useless, as you will see by the three copies of the Birm[ingham] "Morning News" which I send you by this mail said copies containing your article on the "Three Allied Powers." Thus the copy is preserved to you, and brought at least before the Birmingham public. I sincerely hope it may get copied into some of the London papers as well as those published in other provincial towns. Now that it is once launched we know not where it may sail to. If I should see or hear of its appearance elsewhere, you shall soon hear from me to that effect.

I am in a great hurry to reach home to day so I am sure you will pardon these few hasty lines. I am hourly expecting an addition to my family, just fancy, the 4th. [underline in original]

You will laugh when I tell you, but my hair is actually going gray, so that, in [indecipherable, indecipherable] with my large family makes me feel that I am somewhat maturing. I should love you to see my little group, now of two girls and a boy. I really think you would say they were nice good children. I should like you to give my best regards to your niece of whom we often speak. Mr Short and family are leaving Hasborne [?] to reside in London.

I must conclude. With best wishes

Believe me Ever

Yours Sincerely,

Brame
