The Southern Skies of Chile
Experiencing the Total Solar Eclipse
June 26 – July 3, 2019
Co-hosted with The Vassar Travel Program
Dear Swarthmore Alumni, Family and Friends,

On July 2, 2019, be part of history and witness a total solar eclipse in the north of Chile. Chile is renowned for its astronomical observatories and this once-in-a-lifetime experience, in a country of diverse people, topography, high deserts, salt lakes, a host of animal life and cosmopolitan cities, will leave you wishing for more.

This trip, co-sponsored by The Vassar Travel Program, begins in the capital city of Santiago. Here, we will see a wonderful melding of ancient cultures and twenty-first century modernity living side by side. The thriving food scene is worth trying out. Walk on cobbled streets in the barrio observing everyday life and an eclectic mix of architecture. High up on San Cristobal Hill will give you a spectacular view of this dynamic city. The coastal city of Valparaiso provides a close look at the steep funiculars and colorful clifftop homes, including the quirky former residence of the Chilean poet Pablo Neruda, which is today a museum. One can enjoy the epicurean delights and the spectacular wines that Chile offers thanks to its indigenous and European influences over the centuries. Finally, head to Coquimbo which is in the path of the solar eclipse. This coastal area will see professional and amateur astronomers and guests from around the world as well as local Chileans.

Finally, on July 2nd, you will become part of a natural phenomenon that carries an aura of mythology and superstition celebrated across all cultures.

We hope you will join us on this memorable program and since space is limited to just 16 guests, we urge you to reserve your place quickly.

Sincerely,

Lisa K. Shafer
Senior Director of Alumni & Parent Engagement
The Coquimbo region in Chile will be along the main path of the total solar eclipse on July 2nd, 2019. The southern skies of Chile make this region an excellent location to view the total solar eclipse and is known for its world-class telescopes and observatories. This 7-night itinerary will start with a tour of Santiago, Chile’s culturally vibrant capital, the port city of Valparaiso declared as a world heritage site by UNESCO and the Colchagua Valley, known for its famous wine for wine tasting and finally Coquimbo and La Serena to witness the eclipse and be part of history. The optional extension to San Pedro de Atacama is available for those who want to continue exploring the beauty of the northern Chilean desert, known as the driest place on earth.

STUDY LEADER

Eric Jensen is Professor of Astronomy at Swarthmore College, where he has taught for 20 years. He studies planets around other stars and is co-discoverer of more than 20 extrasolar planets. His work as an observational astronomer has taken him to mountaintop observatories in Chile, where there is a breathtaking view of the southern Milky Way high overhead, as well as its small satellite galaxies the Magellanic Clouds. His research on planet-forming disks around young stars uses observations from the Atacama Large Millimeter/Submillimeter Array (ALMA), an array of more than 50 radio telescopes high in the Atacama Desert in northern Chile. In addition to his astronomy research and teaching, he also coordinates Swarthmore’s Environmental Studies program and teaches classes on climate change.
Wednesday, June 26, 2019 – U.S.A | Santiago, Chile
Take an independent flight to Santiago for a guaranteed arrival the next morning.

Thursday, June 27 – Arrival and Santiago City Tour
You will be met on arrival and transferred to your hotel. Freshen up and depart for an afternoon city tour. We will then head to the west of Santiago to see the picturesque “Barrio Concha y Toro,” a typical cobbled street neighborhood that brings visitors back to the early twentieth century. The area’s charming old buildings reflect the elegance of the capital city at the beginning of the last century when many Chileans achieved great wealth as a result of mining. The buildings in so many different styles were designed by the best architects of their time.

Later, visit the civic center of the capital of Chile and its most relevant buildings, such as the La Moneda Government Palace and the Main Square or “Plaza de Armas de Santiago.”

Drive past the beautiful Parque Forestal, designed on the 100th anniversary of the Republic of Chile. This park is surrounded by several monuments and small neighborhoods, each with a particular lifestyle. From the top of the San Cristobal Hill, one can almost see the whole of Santiago. Climb up or descend the hill in a funicular that dates back to 1925, which has been declared a national monument and is a must-see for every visitor.

Return to the hotel in the evening.

Saturday, June 29 – Colchagua Valley and Wine Country Tour

Depart for Colchagua Valley, an agriculture zone characterized by its wine industry. At the heart of this area is the city of Santa Cruz, where the famous Museo de Colchagua is located. The museum is a private enterprise that holds an important collection of prehistory and liturgics art from the colonial and republican periods of Chile’s history.

After a brief stop for lunch, visit a few wineries for a guided tour of their fields, cellar and barrel room. Learn all about the process of wine making and sample some wines.

Overnight: Doubletree by Hilton (B, L, L)

Depart for the city of Coquimbo by coach. During the trip you will get a chance to enjoy the landscapes and first glimpses of the Chilean desert, flora and fauna.

Evening talk about the upcoming solar eclipse event by a local astronomer followed by dinner. Some of the most recognized and award winning wines offering in the valleys of Coquimbo will also be served.

Tuesday, July 2 – Coquimbo | Cultural Tour | Solar Eclipse
Begin the day with a cultural sightseeing tour to Coquimbo to see the main attractions of this city. Learn about its history, culture and traditions, ancient architecture and the legends of pirates and corsairs. Take in the panoramic sight of the city from Coquimbo’s biggest monument— the “Cross of the Third Millennium.” A visit to La Serena will include ancient churches and colonial architecture before departing for the area to best observe the eclipse. This location is approximately 1,200 meters above sea level, near the Andean mountain chain with amazing vistas. In spite of the fact that the climate is cooler in winter, these places have more than 360 clear days. It because of this that several observatories have been installed in the region.

The total solar eclipse is expected in the late afternoon.
