Christine Y. Kim graduated from Swarthmore College as part of the Class of 2017 with a degree in Political Science. Having been very involved in student life, Christine served as Student Body President, Director of Social Affairs Committee, and as one of the pioneers of the Diversity Peer Advisors program during her time at Swarthmore. While she was figuring out her career path, Christine also started a non-profit, Redefine Her Street, that focuses on creating the premier small liberal arts college business network for women interested in careers in finance and consulting by supporting them during the undergraduate recruiting process and familiarizing them with concepts related to their respective fields. She is currently the Chairwoman and CEO of the non-profit, and there are three college chapters established thus far, including a chapter at Swarthmore College.

After graduating, she currently works for Bank of America Merrill Lynch in their Leveraged Finance Origination group and is based in New York, NY.
