

Professor Lynn Molter has given me several interesting topics to consider. The one that I am most interested in involves theoretical experimentation on waveguides. I find this topic interesting, and it is related to some work I have done for the physics department.