Assistant Professor or Lecturer in Dance with Specialization in Contemporary Dance

The Department of Music and Dance at Swarthmore College invites applications for an Assistant Professor or Lecturer in Dance with specialization in contemporary dance. This is a renewable three-year position with competitive salary and full benefits, beginning in Fall 2018. It is not eligible for tenure. Academic rank will be dependent on educational background.

This colleague will teach courses in all levels of contemporary dance technique, repertory, and dance composition as part of our globally-focused program that blends theory and practice. The successful candidate will bring to our program a strong record of creative work, excellence in undergraduate teaching, and knowledge of curriculum development and design. We are particularly interested in candidates whose practice draws on techniques of the African, Asian, or Latinx diaspora. The successful candidate will teach three courses per year as well as contribute to the support of student productions and events with visiting artists. Other responsibilities include administrative work and service to the College.

The ideal candidate will hold a M.F.A. in Dance completed by the appointment starting date of August 1, 2018.

Qualified applicants should submit an online application through Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/46544 by December 2nd 2017. Please include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three reference letters, one sample of creative work, and a sample syllabus.
